Title:	ON Verwerving interim geluiddemper HK416A5
Description:	When suppressors are used on the HK416A5, shooters are exposed to firing gases. Various studies and measurements show that shooting on indoor ranges or in poorly ventilated rooms and environments can lead to a marked increase in gas exposure. Training shooters on indoor ranges is urgent because it provides the necessary conditions to acquire and retain skills at an intensive level. It is essential that, ahead of the eventual permanent solution in 2030, an industry#wide, technically defensible interim measure is adopted that noticeably reduces the gas load for the shooter. This project procures 4.000 units including accessories.When suppressors are used on the HK416A5, shooters are exposed to firing gases.
