II.1.4) Short description

The Athos project has been initiated for the construction of a basic capture- and transport infrastructure in the North Sea Canal area, to enable the usage or storage of CO₂. Athos is an abbreviation for Amsterdam-IJmuiden CO₂ Transport Hub & Offshore Storage, and is a joint initiative between Gasunie, EBN, Tata Steel and Port of Amsterdam.

The Netherlands has set clear climate targets, in line with the signing of the Paris Accord, aiming to reduce CO₂ emissions by 49% (compared to 1990) by 2030. The capture, usage and storage of CO₂ (CCUS) can significantly contribute to the reaching of these targets within a relatively short timeframe. It is, therefore, included as a prominent method for the industry in the Climate Agreement. More information can be found on: www.athosccus.nl

II.2.4) Description of the procurement:

(nature and quantity of works, supplies or services or indication of needs and requirements)

Athos is in the process of developing the project. Part of that development is a market consultation that enables Athos to adopt a procurement and contracting strategy that fits within the capabilities the relevant market parties and the capacity in the market and contributes as much as possible to the drivers of the Athos project. One of the drivers is that Athos envisages to conclude so called EPC contracts for the realization of the works to ensure that the skills, experience, and competencies of the market parties in their respective trades and occupations together with those of the Athos participants are used in an optimal manner and to limit as much as possible interfaces in the scope of works. See section V1.3 and the market consultation documents for further information.
