Toelichting:

Ref.nr. Onderwerp:
11 Key experts

Vraag:

The ToR suggests a large core team, with some Key Experts having overlapping expertise (like KE 2,3 and 4). Combining positions is more effective and efficient: less team coordination and internal hand-over efforts required (thus saving time, saving money and reducing coordination risks). Small teams also provide stakeholders clear, familiar points of contact.

Question:

Is it allowed to combine multiple key positions in one key expert, or will this lead to deduction of points?

Antwoord:

When assessing the offer, each KE role will be assessed separately. The offered expert will be assessed against the requirements and criteria described in the Tender Document. If the expert also takes on another role, they will be assessed separately for that role. Expertise can be combined in fewer persons if the requirements are met, and the Service Provider can describe how the criteria for the specific KE position are covered. In the case that positions are combined, clear argumentation must be provided that demonstrates how the team can still deliver on the assignment and why the chosen approach adds value. Points may be deducted if certain expertise is not included in the core team and/or the criteria outlined in the Tender Document are not addressed. Please note that sufficient hours are allocated to the core team to fulfill the deliverables of the assignment.
